TALMAGE IN LONDON.

Brooklyn's Divine Preaches on the Philippian Earthquake.

WHAT FAITH DID FOR PRISONERS.

Credentials of the One in Whom Men Are Asked to Trust.

ASSURANCE FOR TIMES OF UPHEAVAL

PETROLAL TO THE DISPATOR. LONDON, January 19 .- The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D.D., of Brooklyn, preached in this city to-day, taking for his text Acts xvi., 31: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." He said:

Jails are dark, dull, damp, loathsome places even now; but they were worse in the apostolic times. I imagine, to-day, we are standing in the Philippian dungeon. Do you not feel the chill? Do you not hear the groan of those incarcerated ones who for ten years have not seen the sunlight, and the leep sich of women who remember their father's house, and mourn over their wasted estates? Listen again. It is the cough of a consumptive, or the struggle of one in a will only tell me how," and the great question rightmare of a great horror. You listen neked by thousands of this assemblage is new and hears culturit his chains rattling "How? how?" And while I answer your quesngain, and hear a culprit, his chains rattling as he rolls over in his dreams, and you say: "God nity the prisoner." But there is another sound in that prison. It is the song of joy and gladness. What a place to sing in! The music comes winding through the certiders of the prison, and in all the dark wards the whisper is heard: "What's that?" What's that?" It is the song of Paul and Silas. They cannot sleep. They have been whipped, very badly whipped. The long gashes on their backs are bleeding yet. They lie flat on the cold ground, their feet fast in woodon sockets, and of course they cannot sleep. But they can sing. Julier, what are you doing with these people? Why have they been put in here? O, they have been trying to make the world better. Is that all? That is all. A plif of Joseph. A lion's cave for Daniel. A blazing furnace for Shadrach. Clubs for John Wesley. An anathema for Philip Melanethon. A dungeon for Paul and Silas.

RELEASED BY AN EARTHQUAKE.
But while we are standing in the gloom of that Philippian dungeon, and we hear the mingling voices of sob, and groan, and blasphemy, and hallelujah, suddenly an earthquake! The iron bars of the prison twist, the pillars crack off, the solid masonry begins to heave and rock till all the doors swing open, and the walls fall with a verrific crash. sound in that prison. But Paul cries out. "Stop! Stop! Do thyself no harm. We are t the feet of these prisoners, crying out; What shall I do? What shall I do?" Did aul answer: "Get out of this place before Paul answer: "Get out of this pl there is another earthquake; put han opples on these other prisoners, lest they get dons answer; answer memor through earth and heaven: "Believe Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be

Well, we have all read of the earthquake in Well, we have all read of the earthquake in Lisbon, in Lima, in Aleppo and in Caraccas; but we live in a latitude where in all our memory there has not been one severe volcante disturbance. And yet we have seen 50 carth-quakes. Here is a man who has been building up a large fortune. His bid on the money mar-ket was felt in all the cities.

WHERE HE MAKES HIS MISTAKE, He thinks he has got beyond all annoying rivalries in trade, and he says to himself: "Now I am free and safe from all possible perturbation." But a national panic strikes the crash! goes all that magnificent business es- made of; but you come to it, and walk over it, tablishment. He is a man who has built up a and ask no questions. spanning the dark guir between sin and rightcournes, and all God asks you is to walk across it; and you start, and you come to it, and you stop, and you go a little way on and you stop, and you fall back and you experiment. You say: "How do I know that pridge will hold me?" instead of marching on with firm step, asking eno questions, but feeling that the strength of the eternal God is under you. O, was there ever a prize offered so cheap as pardon and heaven are offered to you? For how much? A million dollars? It is certainly worth more than that. But cheaper than that you can have it. Ten thousand dollars? Less than that.
Fire thousand dollars? Less than that. One dollar? Less than that. One farthing? Less than that, "Without money and without price." No money to pay. No journey to take.
No penance to suffer. Only just one decisive action of the soul. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." Shall I try to tell you what it is to be saved? I cannot tell you. No man, no angel can tell you. But I can hint at it. For my text brings me up to this point: "Thou shalt be saved." It means a happy life here, and a peaceful death and a blissful clernity. It is a grand thing to go to steep at night and to get up in the morning, and to do business all day feeling that all is right between my heart and God.

NO PERMANENT HARM PERMITTED. g lights are struck, there is a happy and an oken family circle. But there has been an accident down at the The young man ventured too far out surf. The telegraph hurled the terror the foundations of that beautiful home. The piano closed: the curtains dropped; the laughter hushed. Crash! go all those domestic hopes, and prospects, and expectations. So, my friends, we have all felt the shaking down of some grent trouble, and there was a time when we were as much excited as this man of the text, and we cried out as he did: "What shall I do? What shall I do? The same reply that the apostic made to him is appropriate to us: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." There are some doesnessed to be supported to the control of the light of the properties of the light portained that you do not care to put any more than your last name under them, or even your initials; but there are some documents of so great importance that you write out your full name. So the Savior in some parts of the Bible is called "Lord," and some parts of the Bible is called "Levd," and in other parts of the Bible he is called "Levd," and in other parts of the Bible he is called "Christ;" but that there might be no mistake about this passage, all three names come in together—"the Lord Jesus Christ."

HIS LIFE HIS CREDENTIALS. Now, who is this being you want me to trust with crecentials and certificates of good character; but I cannot trust them. There is some dishonesty in their looks that make me know I shall be cheated if I confide in them. You cannot put your heart's confidence in a man until you know what stuff he is made of, and am I unreasonable this morning when I stop to ask you who this is that you want me to trost ask you who this is that you want me to trost in? No man would think of venturing his life on a vessel going out to sea that had never been inspected. No, you must have the certificate hung amidships, telling how many tons it carries, and how long it was built, and who built it, and all about it. And you cannot expect me to risk the cargo of my immortal interests on board any craft till you tell me what it is. When, then, I ask you who this is you want me to trust in, you tell me he was a very attractive person. You tell me that the concemporary writers describe him, and they give the color of his seve, and the color of his hard. is made of, and where it was made, and what it is. When, then, I ask you who this is you want me to trust in, von tell me he was a very attractive person. You tell me that the contemporary writers describe him and they give the color of his eyes, and the color of his harr, and thus describe his whole accountable. and they describe his whole appearance as being resplendent. Christ did not tell the children to come to Him. "Suffer little children to come unto me," was not spoken to the children; it was spoken to the Pharisees. The children had come without any invitation. No children, it was spoken to the Pharisees. The children had come without any invitation. No some did Jesus appear than the little ones sitched from their mothers' arms, an avalanche of beauty and love, into his lap. "Suffer little children to come unto me. Such eyes, such cheeks, such a chin, such hair, such physical condition and appear ince-why, it must have been completely captivating and winsome.

A LOOK AT HIM MEANT LOVE. I suppose a look at him was just to love Him I how attractive his manner. Why, when they saw Christ coming along the street they ran into their houses, and they wrapped up their invalids as quick as they could, and brought them out that He might look at them. Of there is something so pleasant, so inviting, so cheering in everything He did, in His very ok. When these sick ones were brought our so cheering in everydamic he did, in his very look. When these sick ones were brought our did He say: "Take away these sores; do not trouble me with these leprosies?" No, no; there was a kind; look, there was a gentle word, there was a healing touch. They could not keep away from Him.

In addition to this softness of character, there was a flery momentum. How the old hypocritics tresubled before Him. How the kings of the earth turned pale. Here is a plair man with a few saliors at His back, coming off the Sea of Galilee, going up to the palace of the Cassars, making that palace quake to the foundations, and uttering a word of mercy and kindness which throbs through all the earth, and through all the heavens, and through all the ges. O! He was a loving Christ, But it was not effeminacy, or insipidity of character; it was acompanied with majesty, infinite and omnipotent. Lest the world should not realize his earnestness, this Christ mounts the cross. You say: "If Christ has to die, why not let Him take some deadly potion and like a sea threat a breatt. should not realize his earnestness, this Christ has to die, why not let Him take some deadly potion and lie on a couch in some bright and beautiful home? If He must die, let Him expire amid all kindly attentions." No, the world must bear the hammers on the heads of the spikes. The world must listen to the death rattle of the sufferer. The world must feel his warm blood drouping on each cheek, while it looks up into the face of His anguish.

Some one went into a house where there had been a good deal of trouble and said to the woman there: "You seem to be lonely." "Yes," she said, "I am lonely." "How many in the family?" "Only myself." "Have you had any children?" "I had seven children." "Where are they?" "Gone." "All gone?" "All," "All dead?" "All." Then she breathed a long sigh into the loneliness, and said: "Oh, sir, I have been a good mother to the grave." And so there are hearts here that are utterly broken down by the bereavements of life. I point you to-day to the eternal baim of heaven. Are there any here that I am missing this morning? O, you poor waiting maid! your heart's sorrow poured in no human ear, lonely and sail how glad you will be when Christ shall disband all your sorrows and crown you queen unto God and the Lamb torever! O, aged men and women, fed by His love and warmed by His grace for three score years and ten! will not your decrepitude change for the leap of a hart when you come to look face to face upon Him whom, having not seen, you love? O, that will be the Good Shepherd, not out in the night and watching to keep off the wolves, but with the lambs reclining on the sun-lit nill. That will be the Captain of our salvation, not amid the roar, and crash, and boom of battle, but amid His disbanded troops keeping victorious festivity. That will be the Bridegroom of the Church coming from afar, the bride leaning upon His arm while He looks down into her face and says: "Behold, thou art fair, my love! Behold, thou art fair." trample it hard. Oh, plant that tree well and thoroughly, for it is to beat fruit such as no other tree ever bore. Why did Christ endure it? He could have taken those rocks, and with them crushed his cruciflors. He could have reached up and grasped the sword of the ommipotent God and with one clean cut have tumbled them into perdition. But no, he was to die. He must die. His life for my life. His life for your life. In one of the European cities a young man died on the scaffold for the crime of murder. Some time after, the mother of this young man was dying, and the priest came in, and she made a confession to the priest that she was the murderer, and not her son; in a moment of anger she had struck her husband a blow that slew him. The son came suddenly into the room, and was washing away the wounds and trying to resuscitate his father, when some one looked through the window and saw him, and supposed him to be the criminal. That young man died for his own mother. You say: "It was wonderful that he never exposed her." But I tell you of a grander thing. Christ, the Son of God, died not for His mother, not for His father, but for His sworn enemies. O, such a Christ as that—so loving, so self sacrificing—can you not trust Him? that—so loving, so self sacrificing—can you not trust Him? A PLAIN HUMAN TRUST. I think there are many under the spirit of

AN UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT. Miss Brown, of the Female College, Run

Over by an Express Wagen. Miss Millie Brown, of Derry, a student of the Pittsburg Female College, met with a very painful accident Saturday afternoon, the result of careless driving. The young lady was standing on Liberty street, near the corner of Sixth street, awaiting an approaching car, when she was struck and knocked down by an express wagon, both wheels passing over her right foot, crushing it terribly. In a moment she was rescued from her perilous position, and carried to the drugatore of R. E. Byers, nearby. Drs. Shaw and Phillips were immediately summoned and were soon on hand. Examination revealed the fact that the wheels had out the entire bottom of the foot nearly off, almost severing three large arteries and fracturing one of the smaller bones. The work of taking up these arteries in the terribly lacerated condition of the foot in-volved great surgical skill and care. The flow of blood prevented their being im-mediately located and adjusted, and probes had to be used very freely in accomplishing it. For more than two hours the fair sufferer unflinchingly bore the excruciating agony. No narcotics or stimulants were administered, and the nerve and patience of the fair sufferer greatly assisted the surgeons

the salvation of his passengers. You say:
"What a grand fellow he must have been! His family deserves very well of the country." You fold the newspaper and sit down at the table, and perhaps do not think of that incident again. That is historical faith, But now you are on the sea, and it is night, and you are asleep, and are awakened by the shriek of "Fire!" You rush out on the dock. You bear, amid the wringing of the hands and the fainting, the cries: "No hope! We are lost! We are lost!" The sail puts out its wings of fire, the ropes make a burning ladder in the might heavens, the spirit of wreck hisses in the waves, and on the hurricane deck shakes out its banner of smoke and darkness. "Down with the life boats!" People rush into them. The boats are about full. Room only for one more man. You are standing on the deck beside the Captain. Who shall it bet_you or the Captain? The Captain says: "You." You jump, and are saved. He stands there, and dies. Now, you believe Captain Braveheart sacrificed himself for his passengers, but you believe it with love, with tears, with hot and loog continued exclamations, with grief at his loss and with joy at your deliverance. That is saving faith. In other words, what you believe with all the heart, and believe in regard to yourself. On this hinge turns my sermon; yea, the salavation of your immortal soul.

SOHO NIGHT SCHOOL CLOSED.

An Entertalnment Given by the Students-Teachers Thanked.

The Soho night school closed on January 17 until next November. A pleasant evening was spent by the pupils and friends. There was a song by Evan Thomas, recitations by John Larkin and Hartley Brown. and an essay by Joseph Davis. The first honors in writing were awarded to John Larkin, the second to Thomas Grogan.

rather to down into a cave of wild beasts or a jungle of reptiles than into the grave, unless Christ goes with me. Will you tell me that I am to be carried out from my bright home, and put away in the darkness? I cannot bear darkness. At the first coming of the evening I must have the gas ht, and the further on in life I get, the more I like to have my friends around about me. And am I to be put off for thousands of years in a dark place, with no one to speak to? When the holidays come, and the gifts-are distributed, shall I add no joy to the "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year?" Ah, do not point down to the hole in the ground, the grave, and call it a beautiful place; unless there be some supernatural Illumination, I shudder back from it. My whole nature revolts at it.

The local money market maintained its custemary activity Saturday, there being a fair demand for discounts and a good counter business. The weak spot was in the checking, which ness. The weak spot was in the checking, which showed a decrease as compared with the previous days of the week. This indicates that the yearly settlements have been made and business restored to its normal condition.

That business is going full tilt is shown by the Clearing House report. The bank clearings are leaving 1889 as far behind as those of that year did 1888. The clearings lass week were nearly $3,000,000 greater than those for the corresponding time in 1889. This is all the more encouraging when it is considered that it is the result of natural expansion and legitimate busiresult of natural expansion and legitimate busi ness. The report follows:

some wheat here to-day, and it was also rumored that a prominent Chicago trader sold quite freely to New York traders. Shorts covered to-day, and at the same time the decline in prices brought out straggling lots of long. Hence, between the selling of long wheat and the buying of shorts a fair volume of business was transacted. The feeling early was heavy, being a continuation of yesterday's weakness. The onening was 1/2 lower than yesterday's closing, and sold off 1/2 more, then firmed up 1/2 (1/2), but became easy and declined 1/2 (1/2)/2 (1/2), but became easy and declined 1/2 (1/2)/2 (1/ Hog Products. The week closes with a much firmer feeling in markets for heavy hogs and lard. This is mainly due a strong export demand having sprung up within a few days. At Chicago tosprung up within a few days. At Chicago today heavy hogs were quoted at $3.90, while the outside price of selected packers was $3.70.
All this season, until this week, the light weights have commanded the best prices. Now the tables are turned and, as it was in olden times, heavyweights take the lead. Lard and, in fact, all provisions remain unchanged in this market. Hams are very firm, with a prospect of going higher soon. All along the provision line the tone is a shade better than last week, but there is still large room for improvement before a satisfactory basis for trade is reached. Short rio sides—store was doing in this mar-ket and the feeling was stronger, the course of prices being influenced by the same features as strengthened the market for mess pork. Firmer Tone to Light Hides-Harness Leather Fails of Its Usual January

The market for light hides has evidently eached bedrock, and large dealers in Chicago have been refusing orders at market prices of late. The strike of journeymen tanners and curriers at Woburn, Mass., where there are 23 firms operating in the line of tanning buff hides, is declared off within a few days. This strike lasted a number of reeks, and since difficulties between capital week, and since dimenties between capital and labor have been adjusted there is an im-proved tone and better demand for light hides. While we cannot report any advance as yet, it is plain that the tide has turned and that any change in markets henceforth will be toward a higher level of prices. Heavy steer hides are dull at last week's prices. Dealers are well supplied with this grade and tanners are well supplied with this grade and tanners are well stocked, and therefore not anxious to buy. The situation of the heavy hide market gives little sign of strength, and prices may go even lower. Call skins are scarce and steady. There is no accumulation of stock in the hands of tanners, and but for the fact that some large tanners have withdrawn from the market prices would before this have advanced. The following clipping from the current number of the Chicago Shoe and Leather Review will no doubt be of interest to dealers and manufacturers in hide and leather lines:

Shipments of hides from Chicago were 26,000,000 ounds more than in 1888. Light hides, commony known as buffs, declined 20 per cent last year. They averaged a little over 5½ for 1888; in 1889 they averaged 5%. As these are the principal hides received from Chicago, the shrinkage is of hides received from Chicago, the shrinkage is of considerable importance. The cheapness of grain leathers, small price for splits and disasters in the rough leather market in the East, contributed to depress tanners and compelled them to protect themselves by buying raw material cheaply or ceasing production. Then again, in the spring and early summer, some 190,000 cow hides were held at the stock yards, and this was a constant menace to the country hide market. Besides this, tanners evinced little comparative interest in buffs; by a system of indifference, that seemed almost pre-stranged, they kept prices steadily down, even in the fall, when hides were in prime condition. This strange condition of afairs puzzled the oldest dealers in hides, who in their 30 years' experience in Chicago never remembered so low a price as 4%c. at which buffs stood weak at the close of 1898. In ealf and klp, quotations were very low, owing, it is alleged, to the compelition of goat, cordovan and kangaroo leathers, which for a brief time depressed the market for waxed calif and kip, Toward the close of the year this leather began to assert its undeniable good qualities, and as prices stiffened, the raw stock less steadily maintained a small advance.

Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Cons.

my life is consistent when I come to the last hour, and this voice is silent, and those eyes are closed, and these hands with which I beg for your eternal salvation to-day are folded over the still heart, that then I shall only begin to live. What power is there in anything to chill me in the last hour if Christ wraps around me the skirt of His own garment? What darkness can fall upon my eyelids then, amid the heavenly daybreak? O' death, I will not fear thee then! Back to thy cavern of darkness, thou robber of all the earth. Fly, thou despoiler of families. With this battle ax I hew thee in twain from helmet to sandal, the voice of Christ sounding all over the earth and through the heavens: "O' death, I will be thy plague. B' grave, I will be thy destruction."

To be faved is to wake up in the presence of Christ. You know when Jesus was upon earth how happy He made every house He went into, and when He brings us up to His house how great our glee. His voice has more music in it than is to be heard in all the oratorics of evernity. Talk not about banks dashed with efflorescence. Jesus is the chief bloom of heaven. We shall see the very face that beamed sympathy in Bethany, and take the very hand that dropped its blood from the short beam of the cross. O, I want to stand in eternity with Him. Toward that harbor I steer. Toward that goal I run. I shall be satisfied when I awake in His likeness. O, broken-hearted men and women, how sweet it will be in that good land to pour all your hardships and bereavements and losses into the loving ear of Christ, and then have Him explain XXXX bakers, $3 5023 75.
